

Safety in the Science Classroom/Laboratory

In placing emphasis on hands-on activities, and minds-on inquiry instruction in grades K-12, it becomes necessary for teachers who teach science to be as knowledgeable as possible about laboratory safety issues and their own responsibilities.

To address these concerns, this workshop has been designed to provide a handy, concise reference with information and a variety of resources in paper, electronic and internet accessible materials.

Participants are asked to bring any safety materials, documents etc. that have been used in their schools to address these issues.

Numerous handouts will be provided to you on many safety issues.

Bob Plaia is a career educator who began his career as a science teacher in the junior high school and high school arenas. He has taught biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, and health. Having served as a science department chairperson, Assistant Principal, Principal and Assistant Superintendent of schools, he retired in 1995 and is currently serving Western Suffolk BOCES as its Science Consultant.
