

Foundations Introductory Workshop Level I

Foundations Workshops give you a practical, how-to overview of Foundations. They focus on the knowledge and skills required to implement the program in the classroom and familiarize participants with the framework of Foundations instruction.

- Understand Foundations principles of instruction, the appropriate student population, and the implementation models used
- Review how Foundations materials facilitate multisensory, interactive learning
- Optimize the use of the Teacher's Manual and interactive CD (not included in fee)
- Plan a Foundations lesson and determine a weekly schedule for a unit
- Practice lesson procedures and activities, reviewing unit structure and materials

Located in New York City, David Marsh brings a variety of international experiences in education to his private practice as an educational therapist. He specializes in coaching students with dyslexia, ADHD and other learning differences, helping each student show their true potential both academically and socially.

David has taught in the United States, the Philippines, El Salvador, Japan, and the Cayman Islands. On Grand Cayman, as the Head Teacher in multi-age classrooms, he was instrumental in the establishment of an international private school for grades Pre-K to Eight. As the school expanded, he moved into full-time administration as Vice Principal, contributing to the school's tremendous success and growth.

Committed to life-long learning, David continues to train in the most up-to-date findings and techniques in neuroeducation.
