

Western Suffolk BOCES Regional Public School Enrollment 2003 through 2012

Prepared by Western Suffolk BOCES
Division of Instructional Support Services, December 2009

WESTERN SUFFOLK BOCES REGIONAL PUBLIC SCHOOL ENROLLMENT 2003-2012

While growth in middle and secondary grade configurations occurred from 2003 to 2009, the decline in elementary grades during those years resulted in an overall 1.1% decline in enrollment in the Western Suffolk BOCES region—from a peak of 91,076 students in 2004 to 89,158 students in 2009. Enrollment patterns were not consistent across the region. Enrollment showed continued growth between 2008 and 2009 in Amityville, Copiague, Huntington, South Huntington and Wyandanch districts. Between 2003 and 2009 district enrollment in Huntington grew by 7.6% and in Smithtown by 6.8%.

Overall regional enrollment is projected to decline by 1,678 K – 12 students (inclusive of special education counts) by 2012 as losses in elementary and middle grades, primarily reflective of a smaller kindergarten beginning in 2005 and thus smaller cohorts, progress through the system. This loss is mitigated by the anticipated growth in the secondary grade configurations as the larger cohorts in those grades continue moving through the system.

Housing is an important consideration for potential school enrollment. Housing sales tend to bring increased school registration that may persist for several years following the sale of a house. For example, the peak in kindergarten enrollment in 2003 was preceded by five years of strong housing sales. Sales recorded between 2005 and 2008, however, showed a decline in the three towns of Babylon (59%), Huntington (45%) and Smithtown (44%). The median selling price of housing declined beginning in 2007, with losses between 2007 and 2008 of 8% in Babylon, 7% in Huntington and 10% in Smithtown. The regional decline in housing sales beginning in 2006 is expected to contribute to declining kindergarten and elementary enrollment through the next several years. The result will be smaller cohorts moving through the system which leads to overall decline in enrollment in the future.

The elementary, K – 5, enrollment fell by 5.7 percent between 2003 and 2009. The enrollment is projected to decline by 4.0 percent over the next three years, with a decrease of 1,579 students between 2009 and 2012.

The middle, 6 – 8, enrollment grew by 0.8 percent between 2003 and 2009. The enrollment is projected to decline by 2.2 percent over the next three years, with a decrease of 476 students between 2009 and 2012.

The secondary, 9 – 12, enrollment grew by 11.6 percent between 2003 and 2009. The enrollment is projected to show continued growth of 1.1 percent, or 318 students between 2009 and 2012.

The Western Suffolk BOCES Office of School Planning & Research has conducted Comprehensive Long Range Planning Studies for over 125 school districts during the past five years. Comprehensive Long Range Planning Studies include analysis of demographic factors that have influenced historical enrollment or can impact future enrollment. These factors include population, housing, economy, and non-public school attendance.
